The Senators continued their batting streak yesterday, but slipped up in their fielding, two errors being mixed up in Mason's flight to the clouds in the fifth inning, with the result that St. Louis scored enough runs to finally win out by the score of 8

For four innings young Mason gave a most remarkable exhibition in the pitching line, striking out six batters, three in the first inning, two in the third, and the only hit scored by the Brown legs was a measley little Texas leaguer that Barry McCormick lost in the sun or it would have been an easy out. During this time the Senators had been hammering Sudhoff for keeps, and everything looked rosy for the locals. In the fifth, for some unaccountable reason, Mason appeared to go all to pieces, giving two bases on balls, hit Sugden on the head with the ball and being mixed up with a single and two errors by Moran and McCormick enabled the Browns to score four runs and tie the score. Jacobsen was scored, but the Browns would not be de-nied and Wallace's home run scored two

The Senators were not a bit disheartened. but came right back in the seventh inning and again shot to the front by scoring three runs, the result of three singles and a triple. The three-bagger went almost to the fence in right field and struck directly on the line, Umpire Sheridan being at the plate, fortunately, which enabled him to judge the hit correctly. This rally put the spectators in good humor for a few min-utes, but in their next turn at the bat, Jacobsen threw Burkett's little roller into the bleachers, the batter making a complete circuit of the bases, three hits follow-ed which scored another run, making eight. Manager McAleer decided that Sudhoff had done enough for the day, at this point, and sent in Glade to finish the battle. This youngster had the "goods" with him, the Senators making but one hit in the last two innings and were blanked, leaving them one to the bad at the finish.

Notwithstanding the bombardment that Sudhoff received in the seven innings he was in the box, his support did not waver for an instant, with the result that not an error was made and six of the seven runs scored were earned by good, hard batting. The Senators, who fielded so sensationally Wednesday, appeared to lose their bearings, McCormick making two bad fumbles, Moran a wild throw to the plate and Jacobsen the weird toss that gave the Browns the tally that tied the score. There was almost a total absence of anything like sensational total absence of anything like sensational fielding, all the chances offered being easy, with the exception of a wonderful one-handed pick up and accurate throw to first by Wallace while on the dead run. Selbach hit the ball through Glade and when it was a yard inside the second base, Wallace shot across the diamond, stooped down, getbered by the general transfer. gathered in the sphere with one hand and threw the batter out at first by a yard. The play was so good that he was lustily cheered by the spectators. Score:

Notes of the Game.

Cassidy and Drill have done splendidly

in the field, when it is considered that they are entirely outside their spheres, lace's in the eighth, on Selbach's grounder, was accuracy itself and as pretty a play as any one would want to see.

Wednesday's victory awakened the local "fans" to the fact that the Senators are slowly but surely coming around and and with the bat. His triple in the seventh scored two runs.

The mighty Lajole is trailing behind Lew Drill just now. Drill's three singles yesterday bounced his percentage from .406 to .432, while Larry's figures are something like .365.

That third inning was something of a peach for Mason. After Hill had gone out Sugden got a measiy little fly back of second that McCormick lost in the sun. After Sudhoff was passed to first both

Boston, 8; Detroit, 1. Detroit narrowly escaped being shut out n yesterday's game at Boston. Tannehill had the visitors at his mercy, while Donovan was an easy mark for the Boston sluggers and retired at the close of the sixth. Collins made a home run in the first, and in the sixth Stahl drove the ball to the center field fence for four bases, sending two men around ahead of him. In the ninth Ferris fumbled Crawford's grounder, Greminger hit to left for two bases and Crawford scored on Lowe's fly to Dougherty. The St Albans Forfeit Game to Foundry. The Foundry boys came out of the game vesterday afternoon with St. Alban's scalps dangling at their belts, and the score of 9 to 0 tells the tale. The game came to an abrupt close in the eighth incame to an abrupt close in the eighth inning because of St. Alban's refusal to abide by one of Umpire Betts' decisions, and in consequence of which Anderson, captain for St. Alban's, was put off the diamond and out of the game for talking odist twirler, was at no time batted ef-J. Shaffer played a level-headed game at third. Harveycutter's work at the second corner for the Methodists and Bocock's catching behind the bat were features.

What proved to be a pleasing innovation was the introduction at yesterday's game of catchy yells and songs by the young ladies of Foundry. Their method of rooting is commendable. Their cheering, no doubt has something to do with the team's doubt, has something to do with the team's standing. The score: FOUNDRY.

Sheckles Shut Out Wilsons Without a

Hit or Run. Fully 3,000 spectators witnessed the contest yesterday afternoon on the Mount church teams, in which the former succeeded in whitewashing the Wilsons by a score of 6 to 0. This game was the best played in the Church League this season. Both teams played well, although the winners had the best of the argument at all stages of the game. The feature of the game was the excellent pitching of Sheckles for the Congregational team, who gave but four bases on balls and did not allow a hit and struck out eleven men. Wood, who was on the slao for the Wilson team, was touched up for a total of ten hits. Rea did good work with the willow, getting two hits, a two-bagger and a home run, this being the second one this season for him. Kelchner covered first in place of Schastian, who did the receiving, both boys doing good work.

J. Shaffer played a level-headed game at orange and blue get from the blue and gray and that was off a substitute pitcher. It appeared as if the winners were desirous of finding out just what they could do in the first four innings, and after that were content to jog along easily. In the first four innings seventeen runs were made, while thereafter it was two, one or none per inning. Titus, Keane and Simon pitched for Georgetown, and all three perform-ed meritoriously. Orrison, the first batter for Columbian in the seventh, secured one hit off Simon, but the remaining men in that and the next inning went out in regu-lar order. Harris started the pitching for Columblan and then was retired in favor of Hol-land, whose work might have shown up to better advantage had his men not as though they were beaten. The Browns had nothing to crow over; they were "dead lucky." Pitcher Mason from Schenectady, N. Y. will do, and his two weeks' notice will be recalled. With good fielding back of him he would have won yesterday, hands down, notwithstanding his wildness in the fifth. But that is the luck of the and the "fans" appreciate their work. When Mason was recalled from the rubber in the fifth the spectators yelled encouragement at him from every side. That pickup and throw of Bobby Wal-are slowly but surely coming around and that interesting contests can be looked for from now on. Everybody got a run for his money yesterday.

Have you noticed the way that Indian from Scranton, one Bill Coughlin, has been hitting the ball of late. Yesterday he didn't do a thing but tear off a briple, a double and a single.

Jake Stahl increased his list of well wishers yesterday by his work at first and with the bat. His triple in the seventh soured two runs.
